

NUCLEIC ACID BASED FILTERS

ABSTRACT

The present invention provides a filter for removing carcinogens from a gas or liquid. The filter contains nucleic acids, for example DNA or apurinic acid, with which the carcinogens may react. In specific embodiments the filters are used for tobacco smoke or 5 industrial pollutants.